

National Park Service

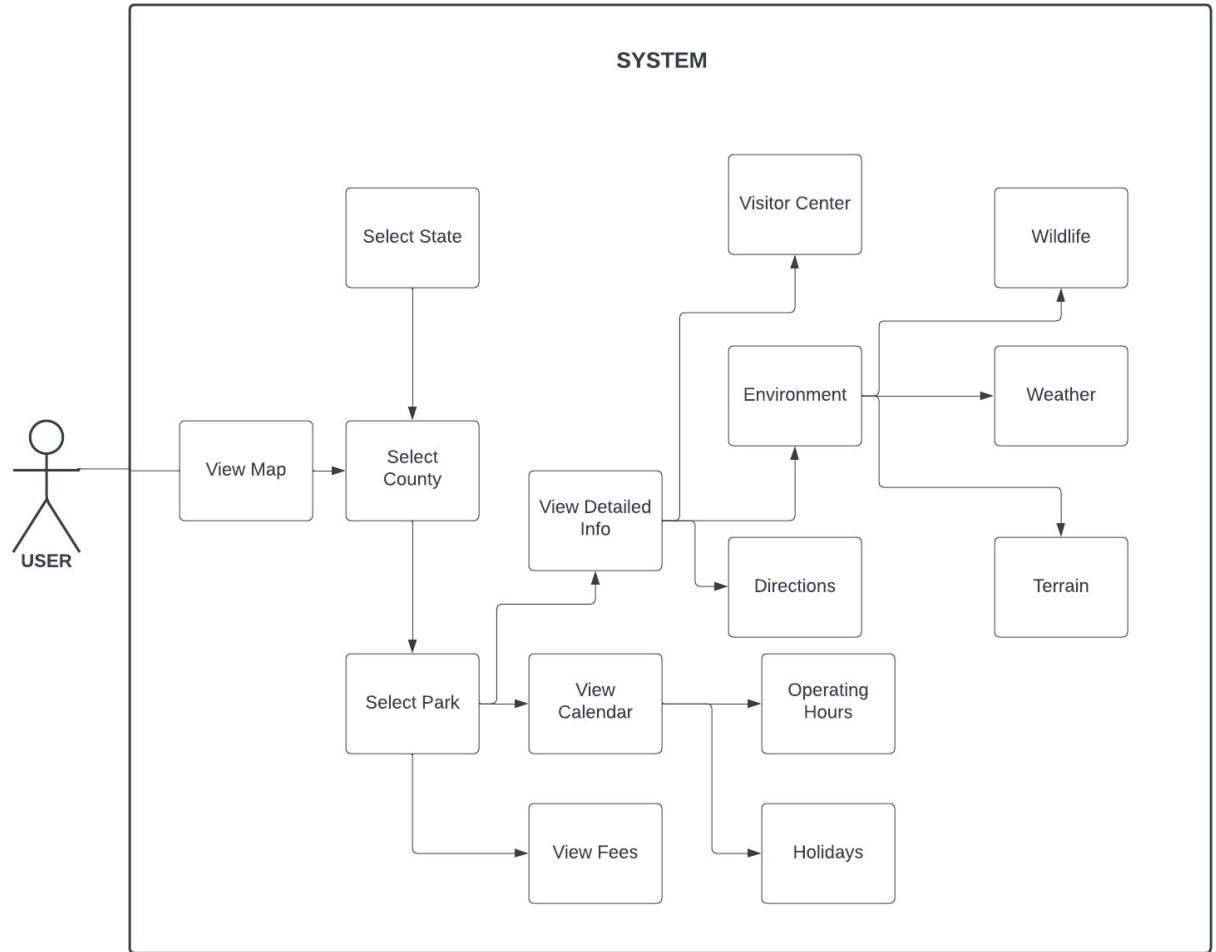

Salvador Avelar-Lopez & Siddhant Abhijit

NPS.gov

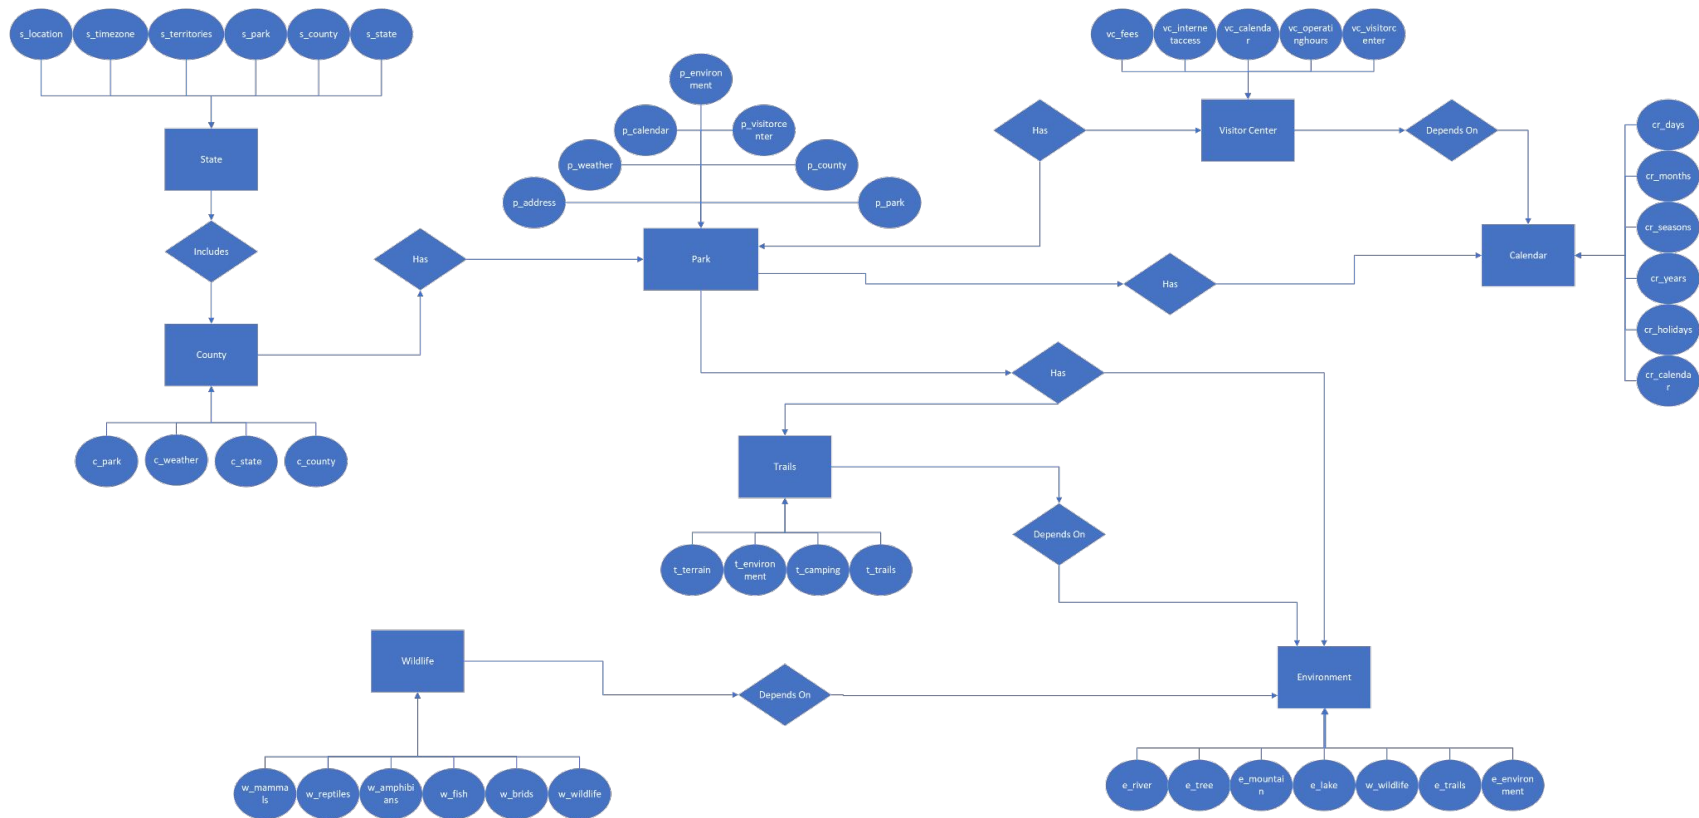

- There are hundreds of national parks spread throughout the United States, each with its own set of information required to plan a trip.
- The current NPS (National Park Service) website requires you to go to each specific park to see its stats, requiring a lot of effort to plan a trip.
- Create a database for easier access to information.

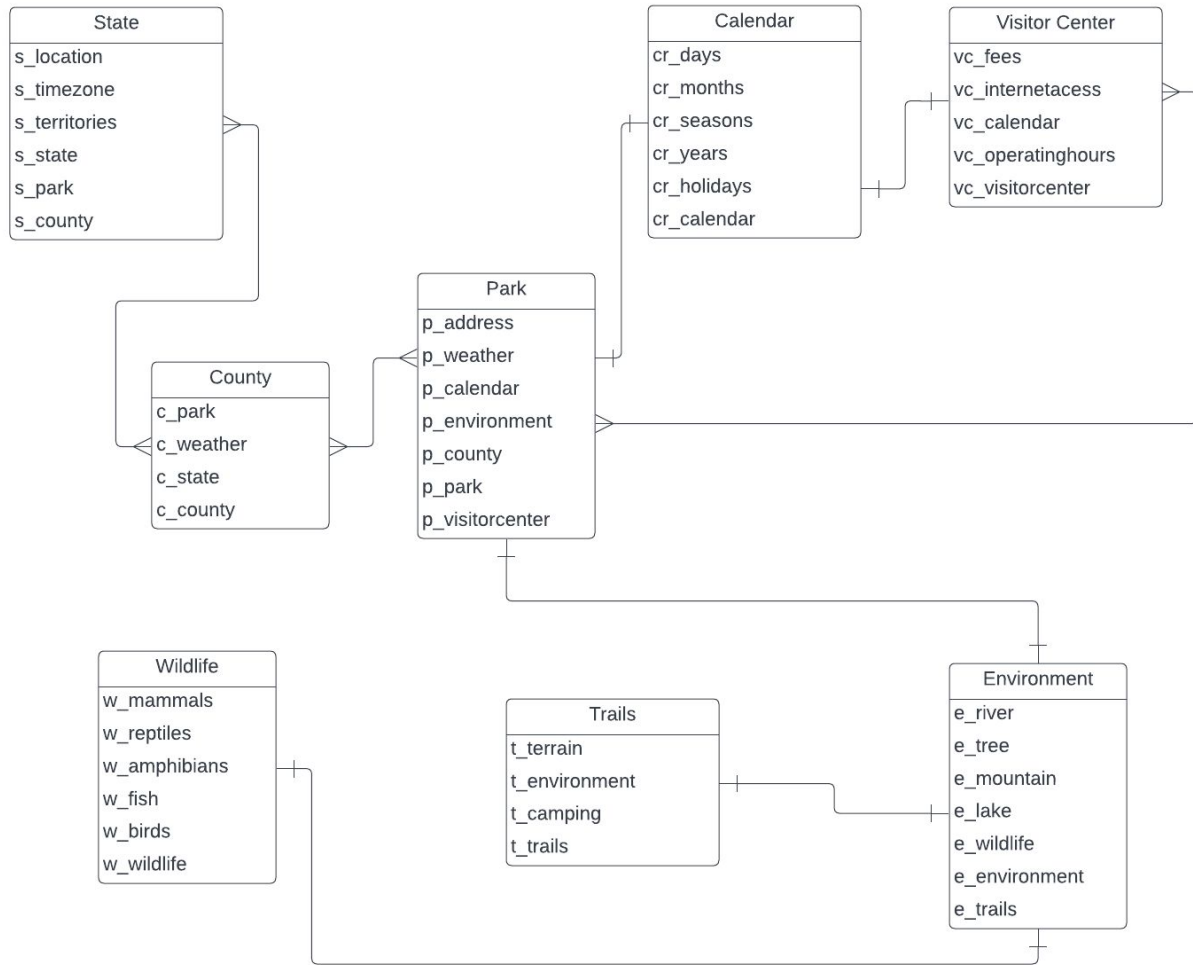

UML Use Case Diagram

ER Diagram

Relational Schema

Development Stack

- CSS/HTML for frontend
- Flask for webapp
- MySQL for database

The background of the slide is dark with a series of diagonal, slightly blurred lines in shades of grey and black. On the right side, there is a vertical strip featuring a white, wavy, topographic-like pattern.

Thank You

Questions?